this national book award finalist is a revealing and beautifully written memoir and family history from acclaimed photographer sally mann in this groundbreaking book a unique interplay of narrative and image mann s preoccupation with family race mortality and the storied landscape of the american south are revealed as almost genetically predetermined written into her dna by the family history that precedes her sorting through boxes of family papers and yellowed photographs she finds more than she bargained for deceit and scandal alcohol domestic abuse car crashes bogeymen clandestine affairs dearly loved and disputed family land racial complications vast sums of money made and lost the return of the prodigal son and maybe even bloody murder in lyrical prose and startlingly revealing photographs she crafts a totally original form of personal history that has the page turning drama of a great novel but is firmly rooted in the fertile soil of her own life pictures with stories a memoir by tony mendoza is a book consisting of 84 photographs each with an attached short story the stories average around 125 words sometimes even shorter they relate to the photograph and to something that happened to me or to my family or friends and more often than not the stories are amusing or surprising or revealing i m thinking that this format seems appropriate for our times considering that nearly everyone today is a smartphone photographer and they are all posting their photos on social media accompanied with some sort of a tale in effect they are doing their memoirs online what i've done with mine is to pay special attention to the moments chosen to the photographs chosen and to the crafting of the short story underneath in a way this book is an exploration of how short can an effective short story be pictures with stories had an impressive early life the atlantic monthly press published an up to 1987 version with 46 stories titled stories it received excellent reviews from major publications the new york times vogue people and photo stories from that version received a guggenheim photography fellowship and were shown in the first installment of the museum of modern art's new photography show in 1986 this version includes 28 stories from the 1987 version and the rest are new pictures and stories this new version is the portrait of the artist as a young man a middle aged man and an older man joanne leonard will play an important role in the history of 20th century culture art and photo history for her daring and innovative subject matter her complex and multi layered works address women's life narratives twinship dementia miscarriage parenting and the stages and conditions of female subjectivity griselda pollock university of leeds being in pictures an intimate photo memoir interweaves the extraordinary photography and collage work of artist joanne leonard with personal narrative to reveal the creative possibilities of feminist art leonard's early photographs were largely documentary capturing scenes from inner city oakland and the winter olympics in sapporo japan as her art evolved she began to challenge the boundary between personal and public images and her work turned to autobiographical and daringly intimate themes including a failed marriage a miscarriage single motherhood her identity as twin and daughter of a jewish immigrant and the problems of aging and memory leonard's evocative and often dreamlike creations reveal the tensions between realism and idealization photography and fantasy these are pictures that both capture and re create life in images that are haunting tender heartbreaking and sometimes shocking but always completely true
